'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Macdonald avenue has taken on a gay Halloween air lately . . . do to the Halloween decorations in the windows of drug stores, stationery stores and other establishments.

A crowd of young boys stand around a pee wee golf course at Eighth street, watching golfers battle par. Some of the spectators are not so particular whether or not the golfers hear their comments on their golfing skill, or lack of it.

Jack Barry parks his red roadster at the corner of Seventh street and Macdonald avenue where he alights and talks with George Imbach.

Charley Hains, the speed cop, walks down the street with a hunk of chalk in his hand, marking automobile tires.

Fred Lamoine enters his Sixth street store in a hurry. Ever see Fred when he wasn't in a hurry?

"Doug" at the Curry Auto Sales sits in the front seat of a new Chrysler sedan in front of the salesrooms at Fourteenth street and Macdonald avenue.

There's a smell of hamburger in the air at Fifteenth street and Macdonald avenue.

Mrs. Clark can be seen through the windows of her store on Macdonald avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, shining up a glass.

An old Ford that has seen better days draws up to the curb. Inside are four high school boys, rough housing with another boy.

Isaac Lester and his dog walk down to the curb where Lester gets into his machine.

Ed Dale, secretary of the Elks club walks across the street, headed for Martin's.

There's a yum-yum smell from the bakery shop on Macdonald near Tenth street. "Scrim-puffs," oh boy.

The toy horse and stage coach in the windows of the bank, with the doll bandits holding up the coach with wicked toy pistols. And a gang of boys around the window, commenting.

And that is that.

KIWANIS CLUB TO HEAR TALK

Explanation of the 26 amendments to be voted upon by California's citizens Nov. 4 will be the principal number of the program arranged for Richmond Kiwanis club when they meet in Mammy's Place today noon.

Thomas Carlson will explain the amendments and will not endeavor to influence the members to either side, it was said. The meeting will be one entirely where the amendments are to be explained without any attempt to get votes for or against any of the proposals.

In charge of the program will be John Rogello, Harry Bottger and Herbert Blake.

Six Reported Bitten By Dogs

MARTINTZ, Oct. 28.—Contra Costa county sheriff's forces were today looking for dogs reported to have bitten three children in Oakley and three men in Bay Point.

Reports were conflicting, but deputies were checking them to determine whether any of the reported victims might be suffering from rabies.

PRESIDENT DENOUNCES PRESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—UP—President Hoover emerged today from his attitude of aloofness in the Congressional campaign to charge that "political agencies" supported "reckless and infamous" charges of scandal in the administration of government oil sale lands.

In one of the most scathing statements he has issued, the President termed the charges of Ralph S. Kelley, suspended land office field employe, "an attempt to charge odious oil scandals in this administration."

Hoover denounced without mentioning any name, the newspaper which syndicated the charges made by Kelley, Republican and Democratic papers printed the stories in various localities.

Make Charges

During six weeks which Kelley spent in Washington this summer, said the President's formal statement, read to newspapermen by Hoover at his regular press conference, the field man "was in negotiation for the sale of his fabrications to a journal identified with the opposition political party, and they were launched in the midst of a political campaign."

Despite opportunities for testing the truth, Hoover added, "these agencies have persisted in broadcasting them for the past six weeks by every device of publicity." Proper inquiry, he said, "would no doubt have destroyed the political (Continued on Page Eight)

Richmond Police In Hunt For Man

Richmond police were asked yesterday to be on the lookout for Edward Herkomer, University of California senior missing from his fraternity house since early Saturday morning.

Herkomer was said to have been despondent over his studies, a fraternity brother told Berkeley police. He is also said to have been suffering from severe headaches recently.

Auburn is the home of the missing youth, and his parents Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Herkomer were in this vicinity today aiding in the search for the missing youth. Hills surrounding the Richmond district were to be searched in an effort to locate the man.

He was described to police as 23 years of age, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighing 160 pounds, blue eyes and blonde hair. When last seen he was wearing horn rim glasses light brown corduroy pants, brown shoes and a tweed grey overcoat.

LOCAL POLICE WILL AID IN BRIDGE FETE

MARTINEZ, Oct. 28.—Police from Richmond, Berkeley, Oakland, and San Francisco will aid sheriff forces here Saturday in policing the city during the Southern Pacific bridge opening celebration, at which time several thousand persons are expected to be guests here.

The celebration will open Friday night with the coronation of the queen to rule over the occasion. The following day a parade consisting of floats, three bands, and marchers will form previous to the formal ceremonies at the bridge.

The three bands are the Mare Island Navy Band, Martinez Municipal band, and Southern Pacific company's band.

Announcement from the sheriff's office today said that 100 special deputy sheriffs would be sworn in for duty during Saturday. Southern Pacific will also detail a force of officers here during the day.

Voting for the queen will end tonight at which time the one to rule over the fete will be chosen.

Burglar Suspect Given Jail Term

MARTINEZ, Oct. 28.—Admitting the theft of several razors from a Richmond barber shop Hector Caballero was sentenced to six months in the county jail by A. A. Alstrom, Richmond Justice of the Peace, who held court here today.

Caballero faced felony charges, but the count was reduced and he pleaded guilty. George C. Burke, charged with issuing a fictitious check was also given six months in the county jail by Alstrom.

Few Persons At Curry Meeting

The supporters of Forrest Curry write-in candidate for congress were much disappointed at the response of the public to meet the candidate in the lobby of the Hotel Carquinez last evening.

Close to fifty persons appeared on the scene, and shook hands with the visitor.

Afterwards Curry mounted a chair, and made a statement in which he said, if elected he would carry out the policies of his father.

The younger Curry apparently is not making much of an impression on those who meet him.

THE WEATHER

Fair and moderately warm Wednesday and Thursday; Gentle changeable winds.

JOE MILLER, DOC DEMOSS HELD

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 28.—Although six alleged members of the Fleagle gang have been indicted by the federal grand jury here to stand trial in the $27,000 Tracy postoffice robbery only two of the men remain to face the court.

Joe Miller and George C. Demoss are the two men who will go on trial before the federal court here when court convenes for its next session. The four men who were indicted, but will never appear before the bar are: Ralph Fleagle, hanged in Colorado state prison July 10 for robbery and murder of Lamar, Colo. bank officials; Jake Fleagle, brother of the alleged bandit leader, who died after being shot at Branson, Mo., Oct. 14; Herbert Royston, and George Abshire, hanged Aug. 12 in Colorado for complicity in the Lamar bank killing.

De Moss was arrested in Canada and was brought back to San Francisco last week where he is now in jail awaiting his return to Sacramento, while Miller is being held in Las Vegas, Nev., until he is returned here in the near future.

Leo Boster, of San Francisco was twice tried on the Tracy postoffice holdup charge and the second (Continued on Page Eight)

SYSTEM WILL BE FINISHED BY DECEMBER

Work on the installation of new and more powerful lights on Macdonald avenue is progressing rapidly, according to a report made yesterday by City Engineer E. A. Hoffman.

In some districts on the avenue, the new lights have been turned on by the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

Lights between First and Sixth street have been increased in power from 400 to 1000 candlepower; from Sixth street to the Southern Pacific station from 400 to 1500 and from the Southern Pacific to Twenty-third street from 400 to 1000.

The number of lights on each block have also been increased. There are now four lights at each intersection, instead of the usual two.

Hoffman stated that through the use of new fixtures the efficiency of the lights have been increased to 90 percent. When the old fixtures were used, it decreased the power of the lights 40 percent, he said.

After midnight, one light at each intersection and one light in the middle of the block will be left burning. The other lights will be turned off. This will mean a saving in electricity, Hoffman said.

It is expected that the entire new lighting system will be installed by Dec. 1.

Richmond Elks Hold Session

Richmond Elks met in a short business session in their club rooms last night at which time full endorsement of the benefit show to be given in this city the early part of December was given by the group.

W. F. Wilson, exalted ruler presided at the meeting.

J. M. INMAN TALKS ON RADIO

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 28.—Senator J. M. Inman, write-in candidate for congress of the third district is reaching into every part of his district, and the support that is rallying to him in all of the counties is increasing daily by leaps and bounds.

Tonight he spoke over the radio KFBK in the following words:

"There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. Omitted, all the voyage of their lives is bound in shallows and in miseries."

Solon Taken

That, my friends, of the six counties comprising the Third California Congressional District, describes our dilemma today, just as it described the affairs of Caesar and the old Romans of whom William Shakespeare wrote.

Death has erased the name of Charles F. Curry from the ballots which we marked just a few weeks ago. In a campaign so short that its brevity is almost without precedent, we must decide upon a congressman to succeed him. That decision must be made on general election day, November 4, when it will be the duty of every citizen of Sacramento, San Joaquin, Yolo, Napa, Solano and Contra Costa counties to write in the name of his choice for this high and important office.

There is no California congressional district with as much at stake in our national legislative chambers as that in which we live. (Continued on Page Eight)

AT CARQUINEZ

Guests registered at Hotel Carquinez last night were, Melvin Lord, Sacramento; G. F. Reetz, San Jose; James H. Haynie, Fresno.

Ex Service Men Back Inman In Campaign

War veterans of the third congressional district are practically united in their support of Senator J. M. Inman of Sacramento, Progressive Republican write-in candidate for congressman, who volunteered for service during the World War.

The fact that Inman is a former soldier is not alone the measure of the veterans' friendship for the Sacramento.

For the most part it is an expression of gratitude for and appreciation of his years of unflinching service in behalf of legislation sponsored by the veterans.

Inman began his legislative career in 1913 and through every session he has been the faithful champion of measures having to do with the welfare of the boys who have fought America's wars.

JOINT AUTHOR OF BILLS
In the 1929 session Inman was joint author of a series of bills introduced at the request of the veterans. As chairman of the senate finance committee he was a powerful force behind the measures.

Among this legislation were the following bills:

Creating the state department of military and veterans' affairs, which gave the veterans a voice

Senator Will Tell Of Campaign At Big Meet Here Thursday

Thursday will be Contra Costa day for Senator J. M. Inman, and he will visit the different towns of the county, winding up at Richmond in the evening where a mass meeting will be held at Brotherhood hall at 257 Fifth street.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the event, and it is anticipated that a large crowd will be present to hear Senator Inman speak in his campaign for election as congressman for the third district, which includes, Sacramento, San Joaquin, Yolo, Napa, Solano and Contra Costa counties.

INMAN MEETING ONLY

The meeting will be strictly an Inman one, as the senator has a message to give to the people in which they are all interested. The senator is a forceful speaker and puts his facts over in a manner that convinces one. He calls an ace an ace, and a spade a spade.

Inman's record in the state legislature is one of which he is proud. He is a natural fighter, and invariably you will always find him on the side of the people.

VIOLA COX TO PRESIDE

Inman is one of the few men in the senate who bears practically a 100 per cent labor record. He is always for the underdog.

At the meeting tomorrow night, Miss Viola Cox, the secretary of the Central Labor Council of Contra Costa county, will be the chairman of the evening.

PUBLIC IS INVITED

The general public is invited to attend the meeting. Be there early and get a seat.

Inman has made an enviable record as an attorney and in recognition of his ability was honored with election as a member of the first board of governors of the California State Bar.

MEMBER OF LODGE

He is a member of the following Sacramento fraternal organizations:

Masons, Knights Templar, Scottish Rite bodies, High Twelve Club, Knights of Pythias, Shriners, Elks, Sciots, Native Sons, Woodmen of the World, and the Eagles.

HONORARY ROTARIAN

He was elected an honorary member of the Rotary club in recognition of his labors in behalf of crippled children legislation.

He volunteered for service during the World War and is a member of veteran organizations and has played a leading role in their activities.

ANNA SAYLOR FOR J. INMAN

Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, director state department of social welfare and former assembly woman—makes an endorsement in the following words:

If the people of the third congressional district value ability, training and experience in legislative matters, they will send Senator J. M. Inman to congress. I consider him one of California's ablest advocates of progressive government, humanitarian measures and business administration. In addition he always has stood on the right side of law enforcement.

Druggist Mistake May Claim Life

PALO ALTO, Oct. 28.—UP—Marron Kendrick, 22, prominent fraternity man of Stanford university, was recovering in a hospital here tonight from the effects of poison given him by mistake when he applied at a drug store for a prescription cough medicine.

WOOD LAUDS J. M. INMAN

Will C. Wood, state director of investment, superintendent of banks, and formerly state superintendent of public instruction, is among others who yesterday heartily endorsed Senator J. M. Inman as the write-in candidate for congress.

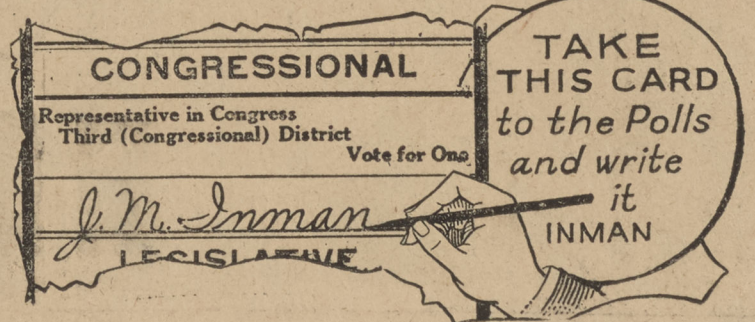

Wood is one of the best known and most influential men in California public life. In the years he served as head of the state school system he gained national recognition as an authority on education.

His statement endorsing Inman follows:

"I am particularly pleased at the opportunity to add my endorsement to the candidacy of Senator J. M. Inman for congress. For years I have been in close touch with Inman as a legislator and I say without reservation that he has been a power for good in the assembly and senate."

CAGE SEASON TO OPEN HERE ON MONDAY

The basketball fans of Richmond will get their first treat of the season Monday night when the 1930 Richmond city basketball league goes into action on the gymnasium floor at Roosevelt Junior High school.

The first game of the evening will be played at 7:30 between Ben Malik's Clothiers and the Civic Center Tires of the B division. The contest will be played at 8:30 between McRacken's Clothier and Santa Fe.

The competition in this year's hoop league is fast enough to suit the tastes of the greatest basketball enthusiast.

Fast Games.
In the A division are the Studebakers, Santa Fe, Odd Fellows, and McRackens, four of the fastest outfits ever to pass a basketball on a local court.

The Santa Fe squad will be almost identical to the team that represented Santa Fe last year, which represented Santa Fe last year, which indicates that a very important part will be taken in 1930 Richmond basketball by the Rail-Readers. Roy Cook's team still contains the well-known Nelson brothers, who are threats to any opponents of the Santa Fe five.

The Studebaker quintet is another veteran team that will play an important part in this year's league. This year's squad has few additions. Among the 1930 Studebakers will be Art and Bunny Muth, Harry Bonham, Lowell Dyer, George Cornell and Bob Pasch. They are an added threat this year, as they have as their coach Claude Samples former high school and Montana university athlete and at present physical education director at Longfellow Junior High school.

New Teams.
The entrance into the league competition of two new teams gives the league added impetus. Harry Skow of the Odd Fellows is certain to put a clever squad on the floor. Among the players who will battle for the Odd Fellows are Clyde DeBaere, Joe Viano, Joe Baldwin, Walter and George Gordon, Bill Gualdoni, Tausner, and Taylor.

The McRacken quintet comes in to league competition with one of the most dangerous teams to enter local basketball circles. On its roster are such names as Ernie Barfield, Larry Gillan, Louis Hall, Dave Flynn, Ralph Lee, Art McLanahan, Al Hozzerka and Bill Milovich. Every man in this group is a strong threat to the other members of the league.

The B division boasts four teams with fine basketball reputations. In the B division are Ben Malik's Mastercraft Roofers, Garfinkle's and Civic Center Tires, all city league veterans.

Garfinkle Team.
There will be a strong Garfinkle outfit this year, consisting of Harry Page, Paul Maloney, George Weeks, Kenneth Iverson and Ogden Arnold.

This year's Ben Malik's squad consists largely of new-comers to the local league, but every one of these players has a strong reputation behind him and should make competition close in the B division. The members of Ben Malik's team are: John Efrister, Tom Dodson, Nate Dawson, Paul Potts, Jack Murdock, James Dolan, Leland Goldsworthy and Roland Duncan. The team will be coached by John Gaillard.

The Civic Center Tires were a clever outfit in last year's league.

Local Drivers To Enter Races At Martinez Fete

Several Richmond sportsmen will participate in the outboard races to be held at the opening of the Martinez-Benea bridge Saturday morning.

Dr. Francis Kent will enter the regatta with his famous "Lur Airsea." C. E. Marshall, also of Richmond, will drive with Kent. There is a possibility that other Richmond drivers, including Rex Myers, Bill Renell and George Lauritzen will enter the races.

The meet is being sponsored by the Martinez Chamber of Commerce. Two races of 30 miles will be run off, each in two heats of 15 miles.

Soccer Club To Hold Meet

The soccer league schedule for the remainder of the season will be outlined at a meeting of the Richmond Soccer club this evening at 521 Eighteenth street.

Reports of the delegates to the recent league meeting will be made tonight.

McLarnin, Petrolle Fight Wins Approval

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. —UP—The proposed bout between Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle for Madison Square Garden Nov. 21, was approved today by the New York Athletic commission.

Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., will meet the winner of the Kid Chocolate-Fidel Laharba bout which will be held Nov. 3 the commission announced. Both fights will be held at the garden.

Blackmail Victim Reported Disgusted

WATSONVILLE, Oct. 28. —UP—One can hardly blame any man for being disgusted with blackmailers who go about their work in a sly and dishonest manner. At least that's the way Mike Reseter, millionaire hotel man and apple grower, figured. After twice leaving $2500 in a lonely spot in response to threatening letters from a blackmailer, and twice returning several days later, only to find the money still intact, Reseter reported the matter to local authorities today.

Skim Milk Gives Pastor Divorce

RENO, Nev., Oct. 28. —UP—The Rev. Thomas Nevitt Lawrence pastor of the Protestant Episcopal church of Belle Haven, Virginia, was granted a divorce from Virginia Wyatt Lawrence here today.

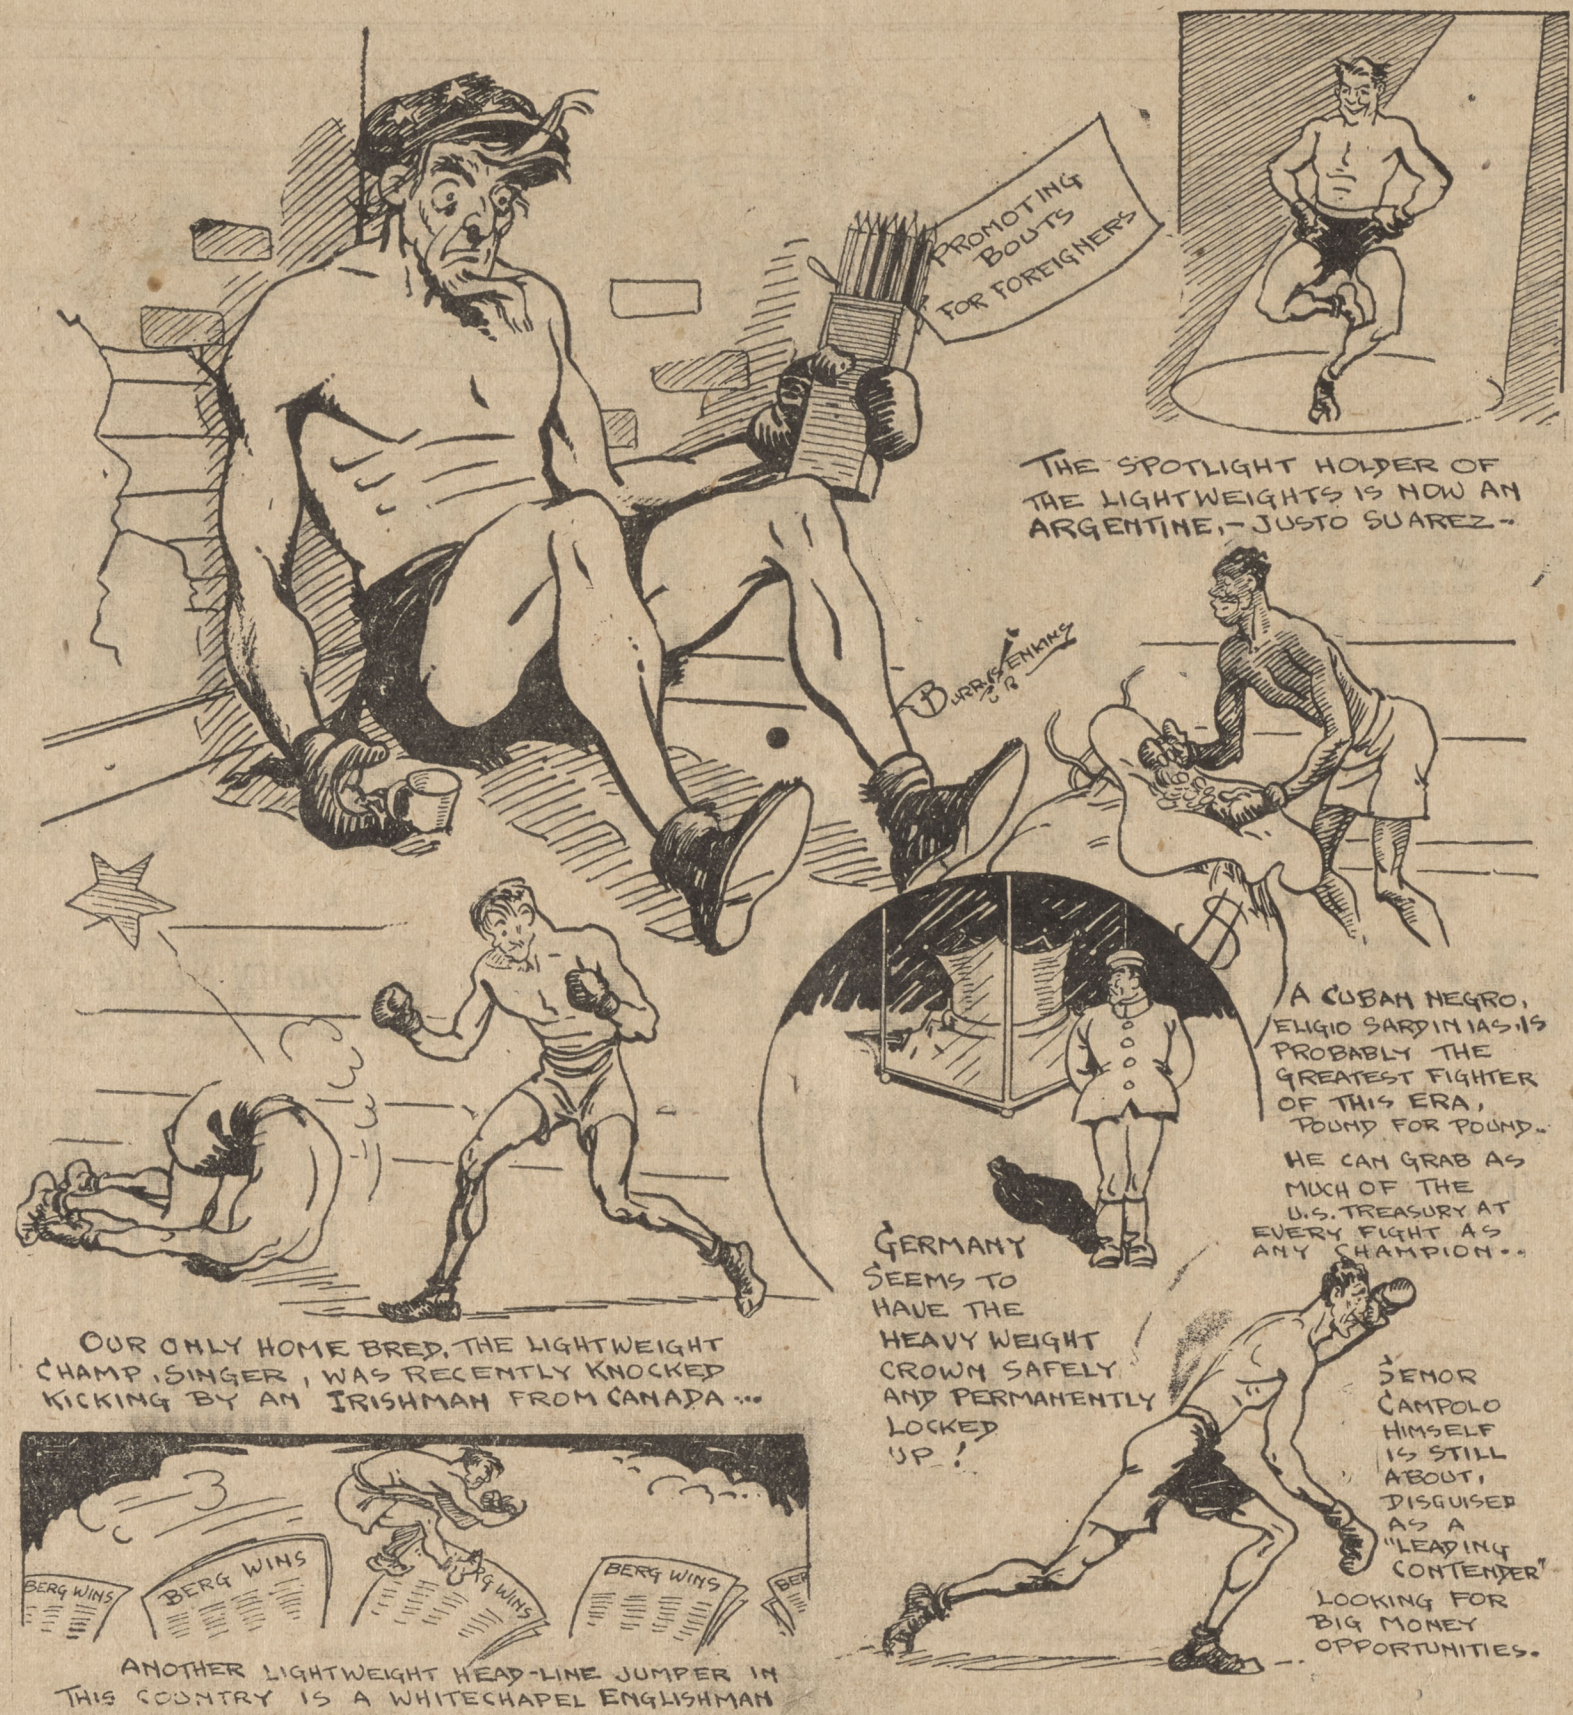

His complaint contained allegations that Mrs. Lawrence had attacked his reputation among members of his church and "on numerous occasions she gave plaintiff skim milk for his cereals while defendant and any others who might be dining with them at the time would be served with cream."

and should be able to stage even a better exhibition of good basketball than they displayed last season. The team includes: Donald Seawright, Al Linsted, Clyde Bunker, Joe Woes, and Don Randall.

The Mastercraft Roofers' lineup is not yet known, but a fine team was put on the floor in 1929, and an equally strong team is indicated this year.

Unemployed To Be Given Aid By Government

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. —UP—Christmas trees and the trimmings for families of 224,000 of the jobless seemed assured today as the post office department announced its plans for handling the holiday mail.

Simultaneously other departments added their bits to the volume of emergency effort. Arthur Woods, chairman of the president's emergency committee returned from New York with word that satisfactory progress was being made there in coping with the unemployment problem.

1. The postoffice department announced radical departure from previous Christmas employment policies looking toward jobs for 224,000 idle family men for ten days prior to the holiday.

2. Interior department, officials announced Boulder Dam plans have been advanced six months to relieve unemployment.

3. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs said 4500 would be employed this winter in hospital construction involving expenditure of about $7,000,000.

4. Governor Allen of Massachusetts telephoned Secretary of Commerce Lamont that a state wide committee to stimulate employment had been formed and would begin functioning tomorrow.

5. "The people's lobby" wrote the Republican and Democratic national committees demanding special session of congress immediately after the election to appropriate relief funds. President Hoover announced last week no special session will be held.

Brazil Cheers Rebel Leader

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 28. —UP—Gen. Juarez Tavora, young northern rebel leader, hero of the hour, arrived here today by airplane from the north and was cheered by excited thousands as he passed along the capital's broad streets to his hotel.

The young general, popularly mentioned as vice president in the provisional government to be formed under Dr. Getulio Vargas, recognized leader of the successful revolt, at once conferred with other rebel leaders in the capital.

New Class Of Pro Golfers Seen

CHICAGO, Oct. 28. —UP—Application of George von Elm, famous amateur star, for membership in the Professional Golfers' association may result in the creation of a new class of membership for businessmen golfers.

Alex Pirie, president of the P. G. A., said today.

Membership in the P. G. A. is limited to players who have served a three year professional apprenticeship, but Pirie favors establishment of a new class for golfers who desire to relinquish their amateur status but do not intend to make professional golf their vocation.

Movie Star Fights With Newspapermen

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28. —UP—Ralph Ince, motion picture executive, and several friends, received injuries in a fight at a local newspaperman's club here tonight when they refused an invitation to leave.

Ince, Henry Clive, a magazine cover artist, and the others visited the club as guests of Rex Lease, cowboy film actor who had a guest card. Lease later prepared to leave but the others decided to stay.

Some thirty Los Angeles newspapermen joined in the fight. Lease, who recently was fined $50 for blacking the eye of Vivian Duncan, showed no taste for the fighting tonight and stood on the side lines. He was uninjured but accompanied his friends to a police receiving hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises.

Friend Keeps Sum For Dying Woman

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28. —UP—Trusted with $3500 by a friend, Mrs. Agnes C. Sullivan appeared in superior court voluntarily here today and said that although the money was deposited in a bank under her name it actually belonged to cousins of the woman who had faith in her honesty.

"Mrs. Annie Ormond, who was my friend, and I kept a joint account for her money merely for convenience while she was ill in the hospital," Mrs. Sullivan told a judge. "Since her death the money belongs to Agnes Sutton of Toronto, Canada, and Annie Riordan of Cork, Ireland."

Mrs. Sullivan said an inheritance tax appraiser had asked her for $105 on the assumption that she inherited Mrs. Ormond's estate.

STANFORD, U. C. MAY MAKE GOOD

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28. —UP—There were indications tonight that Stanford and California football teams, after a poor start, may provide some upset before the season ends.

Coach Clarence "Xibs" Price of California furnished a big surprise by ordering secret practice for the Bears without advance notice. No one will be admitted to the practice field except players and coaches until after the contest with University of Southern California a week from next Saturday, he said. This is a procedure seldom followed at Berkeley.

Stanford reserves showed new life in practice this afternoon because they had a good chance for promotion to the first varsity. Five of them have already been advanced as credit for their work against U. S. C. when they went in as substitutes while the team was being beaten, 41 to 12.

Pee-wee Golf Courses Dying

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28. —UP—Miniature golf courses are disappearing in California. Will J. French, director of the state department of industrial relations reported to Governor C. C. Young tonight.

"A large number of wage claimants filed with the Division of Labor statistics and law enforcement show that contractors and others of limited financial resources are sorry they attempted to enter the device of the dwarfed Scotch game," Wood said. "There were 135 such claims presented in the Los Angeles office during the past three or four weeks. Experience with another small course resulted in finding that the daily gross receipts were $18, and the overhead expenses $30. This course did not pay. It has many colleagues."

War Veteran In Plea For Wife

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 28. —UP—Robert Burns, 35, of Peoria, Ill.,

HIGH ELEVEN WILL MEET PIEDMONT

Chagrined by its downfall last week-end before the Berkeley high school eleven, the Richmond union high school varsity will tackle the Piedmont Highlanders Friday afternoon on the local field in the second game of the Alameda County Athletic league football season.

Richmond was delivered a rather staggering blow last Friday when it was defeated 34 to 6 by Berkeley. However, it is generally concluded that the locals were up against probably the greatest high school eleven in the state, and could not hope for a close battle. As it was, the Richmond boys at times held the Berkeleyan in fine football style, and if they can show the same fight and defense this Friday against Piedmont, they should be able to get better results than they did in their first league contest.

In any case, it looks as if a classic battle will be fought on the Richmond field Friday. The Piedmonters have been showing a true attack this season, and won their first game of the league last week-end against Alameda high school.

Dave Shade Ties With Jack Wood

LONDON, Oct. 28. —UP—Jack Wood, British welterweight champion, tonight fought a 12-round draw with Dave Shade, of California, in Albert hall.

Shade carried the fight to the Englishman from the start but Wood stood him off time and again with straight lefts to the head. The American was best at infighting but Wood was the better tactician. After winning the early rounds, Shade tired and the Englishman won the latter rounds.

In a letter today asked Governor Phillips to find him a wife. She must be red headed, between the ages of 17 and 55, and a "true blue pal." Blondes need not apply.

Daring Queen

WHEN the Gilroy, Calif., wild west show, roundup and polo tournament gets under way Nov. 15, gracing the queen's throne will be none other than the daring miss pictured above, Emory McHale. Though only a high school girl, she is acknowledged one of the best horsewomen in the state.

The Grant P. T. A. yesterday afternoon entertained in honor of Miss Davis, new principal of Grant School, and the other members of the faculty.

A fine program preceded refreshments that were served later in the afternoon. A clever play entitled "Mendellia" was presented under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Conwell.

Members of the cast of the production were Mrs. Laurene Anderson, Mr. Vera Neiland, Mrs. Lucille Howell, Mrs. Lila Bedoes, and Miss Janee Walker.

Miss Annette Chasseur also sang several vocal numbers, entitled "Just a Cottage Small," and "Roses of Picardy." Miss June Mills acted as accompanist.

Preceding the program the regular child study hour was conducted by Mrs. Alan Morrow. Mrs. Charles MacInosh presided during the program.

Refreshments were served later in the afternoon at tables decorated in the Halloween motif. The scheme of decoration was also carried out with yellow and red chrysanthemums. A true Halloween luncheon of pumpkin pie and coffee was served. The members of the refreshment committee were Mrs. Ida Hansen, Mrs. H. V. Phillips, Mrs. Kramer, and Mrs. Carrol.

The decoration committee included: Mrs. Edwin Leift, Mrs. Charles MacInosh, and Mrs. Ed Winters.

Each teacher attending the party was presented a beautiful bouquet of flowers by Mrs. Bert Curry.

WASHINGTON P. T. A. HAS CARD PARTY

An enjoyable card party was held yesterday afternoon by the members of the Washington P. T. A. Both whist and bridge were played during the afternoon.

The prizes for bridge were won by Miss Cecilia Bertocchi, Mrs. Sophie Beckman, Mrs. Robert Paasch, Mrs. A. Gostina, Mrs. Frances Smith, Mrs. Carrie, and Mrs. Catherine Anglin.

Bridge prizes were won by Mrs. A. Bowen, Mrs. Leona Patterson, and Mrs. Ansterman.

The next meeting of the Washington P. T. A. will be held on the first Tuesday in December.

Turkey Whist To Be Given Here By Mooseheart

The women of the Mooseheart Legion will hold one of their whist parties this afternoon. This is the first whist party of the new series. Mrs. Clare Barry will be in charge.

In the evening, the women of the Mooseheart Legion will hold a turkey whist. A $3.00 turkey order will be given for every three tables. Mrs. Clare Barry is in charge of the turkey whist also. There will be no regular meeting this evening. The public is invited to attend these parties.

Laundry Workers Enjoy Dance Here

Halloween was celebrated by Richmond laundry workers last night with an dance in Brotherhood hall. Costumes and masks were worn by the half hundred persons in attendance.

Preceding the dance a short business meeting was held at which time an address was heard urging support in the Inman for Congress campaign. Elizabeth Davis was chairman and headed arrangements for the dance.

AUXILIARY TO LEGION WILL ENTER PARADE

Richmond American Legion Auxiliary will participate in the observance of Armistice Day with appropriate representation in the parade to be held that day.

That was the plan endorsed at a meeting of the organization last night. Following the short business meeting a Halloween dance was held in Memorial hall, which was attended by members of the Auxiliary and the Legion.

The hall was decorated in Halloween garb as were the dancers. Mrs. Alice Wiles was in charge of the affair.

RAIL GROUP TO ENTERTAIN AT WHIST HERE

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Railway Conductors will this afternoon hold a public whist at Memorial hall. The whist will start at two o'clock. Many fine prizes will be offered to the winners. The public is cordially invited to attend. Arrangements for the affair are under the direction of Mrs. M. Sullivan.

Hallowe'en Party Enjoyed By Group

Mrs. A. L. Hathaway and Mrs. F. R. Harley were joint hostesses at a Hallowe'en party given recently at the Standard Oil Rod and Gun club.

Among those attending are: Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Shurleff and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kees and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Connie Hecker, Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Harley and Miss Richmond.

W. S. I. CLUB ENTERTAINED AT SESSION

Mrs. J. C. Eaton was hostess to members of the West Side Improvement club recently at her home at a social afternoon.

Games were enjoyed during the evening and prizes were won by Mrs. Amelia Eaton, Mrs. Max Henry and Mrs. Charles Cerdono.

At the conclusion of the afternoon, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. J. Huff presided over the meeting.

Mission Study Class Started At Church Here

The Mission Study classes at the Steps Presbyterian church began last Sunday evening with an especially large crowd present at the opening session.

The feature of the evening was the showing of motion pictures of Porto Rico.

The evening opened with the serving of refreshments by the committee in charge at six o'clock. The classes then held their discussion groups until 7:10 when they returned to the auditorium to hold a song service. A solo was sung by George McLennan of the seminary at San Anselmo.

Mrs. Meryl Bish is in charge of the Mission Study classes, and is assisted by a very efficient staff of teachers. More than 80 were present at the program held this week. Everyone is invited to enjoy the fellowship.

W. B. A. Group To Meet On Friday

Mrs. Alice Newcomb of Richmond will preside over the meeting of the past presidents of the Women's Benefit association of Central California Friday at Berkeley.

Firemen Of C. C. County At Meet

Three speakers addressed the meeting of Contra Costa county Firemen's association meeting in Martinez last night attended by several Richmond firemen headed by Jack Barry.

A. P. Hahn of San Francisco and member of American Society of Mechanical Engineers talked on "Standardization of Hose Thread." His talk was highly appreciated and a committee was named to keep the importance of standardization before the various fire department heads.

Capt. W. O. Meyers of Los Angeles and president of California State Firemen's association addressed the gathering as did Judge Rhaphy of San Mateo who urged the body to go on record as favoring amendment No. 2. The body had already declared itself as opposed to the measure, and did not change its decision following the address of Judge Rhaphy.

A committee was named to keep in touch with supervisors on the matter of keeping weeds burned off near the highways.

Next meeting of the group will nominate officers for the ensuing year. Gathering will be held in Walnut Creek Nov. 25. Refreshments were served the delegates after the business session by Martinez firemen.

Twenty Thirty Club To Meet

A discussion of the amendments that will appear on the November ballot will be held by the Twenty-Thirty club when it meets tomorrow night at the Hotel Carquinez. A. Weston Jenkins, chairman of the evening stated last night.

Each member will discuss one of the amendments and T. H. Dap will then lead a general discussion of the proposals.

An entertainment will then follow the meeting.

AREME CLUB ENTERTAINED WITH MEETING

A good attendance enjoyed the meeting of Areme sewing club held at the home of Mrs. Annie Black, 971 Thirty-sixth street yesterday. A bazaar to be given by the ladies Nov. 8 in a store on Macdonald avenue near Ninth street was planned at yesterday's meeting. No meeting will be held Nov. 11, it was decided.

The next gathering of the members will be held in Masonic hall Nov. 25. Mrs. Edith Pearce presided at the meeting yesterday.

Scout Course Ended In City

Twenty-three Richmond Boy Scout leaders will be awarded certificates by the National Council when the county organization holds its next meeting for their having successfully completed a six night course in the principles of scouting.

The course which began Oct. 20 included a class every evening held in Roosevelt Junior high school, which was addressed by a man versed in scouting, and covered every phase from the tenderfoot to the first class scout.

W. T. Finley addressed the last meeting. R. F. Cox, Richmond Scout executive headed the class. He declared the course a success and hoped for funds and leaders to provide several additional troops in the near future. He declared the demand for such service from the community was urgent as boys in ages which desire scouting were numerous.

All Feared Dead In Mine Blast

MCALISTER, Okla., Oct. 28.—UP—No sound indicating that life still existed was heard late tonight as rescue crews worked their way near the chamber in the number four Wheatley coal mine where 29 miners were entombed by an explosion Monday night.

Only 100 feet of debris strewn passageway separated the rescue workers from the west entry of the sixteenth level, 2500 feet under McAlister's residential section at 11:30 o'clock tonight.

Miller D. Hay, chief mine inspector for Oklahoma, sent word from the gas saturated depths that all had disappeared of finding any of the men alive.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 28.—UP—Former Congressman James H. MacLafferty, of California who served as assistant to President Hoover while he was secretary of commerce tonight ridiculed a promise made by Alford E. Smith, former governor of New York, at Providence, R. I. last night that the democratic party "will bring about real economy by not making unnecessary appropriations."

MacLafferty, speaking here in the interest of the republican state committee current election campaign referred to Smith's promises as "interesting but not important."

Mystery Plane Over Richmond

Appearance of a mystery airplane, evidently in distress, stirred the curiosity of Richmond citizens last night.

The plane was sighted above Richmond at an early hour last night and to onlookers it appeared as if the motor of the plane was sputtering.

Later the pilot circled his plane and dropped a white flare, as if looking for an emergency landing. He then headed toward Berkeley and flew away.

Up to a late hour last night no neighboring airport reported the landing of a ship in distress. Fear was expressed last night that the pilot may have been forced down in the hills.

PARLIAMENT IS OPENED BY KING

LONDON, Oct. 28.—UP—Amid traditional picturesque pageantry King George V today read the speech from the throne in the House of Lords, formally inaugurating a new session of parliament.

Peers in robes of scarlet, gold and ermine, brilliantly uniformed officers and diplomats from the nations of the world, in full dress uniforms, surrounded the king as he intoned his brief address to his legislators and his people.

It was a display in the midst of which the precarious political position of the labor government for the moment was forgotten. He appeared tonight that premier J. Ramsay MacDonald's ministry had won its first skirmish and would escape immediate embarrassment over unemployment.

Motion Made

In the house of commons, the parliamentary liberal party decided to offer no amendment to the motion for a message of thanks to King George for his speech. The Conservatives had indicated they intend to seek to amend the message to include a clause relative to unemployment which would be tantamount to a vote of misconfidence to the labor government if passed.

The Liberal party's action, however, indicated that the government was in a stronger position than had been anticipated. Success in the opening session of Parliament was believed assured. In the House of Lords, the government's Palestine policy, was attacked during the debate on the King's speech. The debate was brief, however, and a motion to thank the King for his "gracious speech" was approved without a vote.

Read Speech

King George, wearing his robes and his crown, stood before the throne and read his speech before the combined House of Parliament. It was the first time he had opened Parliament since his illness of 1928 and the first time in history that a king has opened a labor government parliament.

The King spoke in a clear, loud voice which was audible throughout the chamber.

The massive crown and heavy ermine and crimson robes minimized the King's stature somewhat, but he was a royal figure as he stood and spoke to his parliament.

Prince Present

The Duke of York, the King's second son, was the first member of the royal family to arrive. He occupied a seat near the throne almost unobserved. The Prince of Wales was next. He strode in, clad in a flowing red robe and took a seat on the dais to the right of the throne after bowing slowly to the unoccupied throne and then to the chamber.

The King emphasized the world wide economic depression in connection with Britain's unemployment.

"An economic depression unfortunately continues to dominate the markets of the world," he said, "and the accompanying restriction of international trade is felt with severity in those industries which are especially dependent on export. My government will persist in its effort to develop and extend the home and imperial foreign trade and help in measures which will lead to greater efficiency in industry."

LIONS CLUB HEARS CARLSON

Twenty-six amendments to be voted upon by Californians next Tuesday were explained to Richmond Lions yesterday by Thomas Carlson.

No attempt was made during Carlson's talk to influence the members to either side of the question. The talk was entirely an explanatory one in regard to the amendments.

George Meese, county assessor explained the amendment regarding the collection of automobile taxes at the request of Carlson. A series of limericks club members was sung by A. L. Paulsen, Dennis Shaw was complimented for his work in one of the limericks sung by Paulsen. Both men received hearty applause.

Lions club will co-operated in making the coming Community Chest drive a success. That was decided when a committee was named to work with T. H. DeLap, one of the chest drive chairmen.

Those named from the club were: Al Furrer, Ward McKracken, Clinton Smith, Harry Curry, Ivan Conn, Ernest Emmerich and E. H. Higgins.

TRADE SCHOOL GIVEN TO GREECE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—As an American gift to the cause of education in foreign lands, the Near East relief today announced the transfer of its $1,000,000 trade school in Syria, Greece, to a committee of Greek educators. They will operate it as a vocational school for needy students, specializing in the weaving and textile trades, under the advisory supervision of the Near East Foundation successor of Near East Relief.

The school, which has accommodations for 3000 students, bears the name of Woodrow Wilson and has been supported for many years by gifts from the state of Virginia. It consists of a group of 20 buildings, constructed by refugee labor from a brilliant yellow marble quarried on the school property. Its construction, during the period following the Smyrna disaster, gave employment to several thousand needy refugees.

For several years it was used as an institution for the trade training of refugee orphans who had come from Turkey to Greece under American protection. It has now been arranged that the school will become a permanent monument to American philanthropy in Greece.

Located on an Aegean island which has been famous since the days of Homer, the institution is equipped with class-rooms, workshops, dormitories, dining halls, a bakery with a daily capacity of 8,000 pounds of bread, and a farm which produce most of the vegetables, fruit and dairy products needed for the students.

The island of Syra was described by Homer as a place abounding in wine and wheat, and famous for its healthful climate. Today it has a population of about 50,000 and is six hours from Athens by boat.

It was selected by a committee of American educators as the ideal spot in all Greece for a model trade-training school for refugee children drawn from all parts of the mainland, particularly because the local industries of the island are highly diversified, offering apprenticeship training in more than 50 trades and handicrafts.

The buildings of the Woodrow Wilson school are arranged in a half mile crescent along a hillside facing the blue waters of the Aegean, and enclosing a 30-acre campus equipped with playing fields for various athletic sports and exercises. The school's American-trained baseball and football teams have held the Greek championship for several years.

The trades taught include all branches of weaving and manufacture of textiles, rug making, manufacture of leather products, tailoring, carpentry, iron-working and designing. Since it was started, it has graduated more than 7000 boys and girls into self-supporting employment in various parts of Greece, Egypt and western Europe. It maintains an employment department which finds jobs for practically all its graduates.

Another important gift by America to Greece, also announced today, is a model tuberculosis sanatorium in the city of Athens, named in honor of the late Christopher Thuermer of Seattle, Wash., who for many years was in charge of American relief work in Greece. The sanatorium, completely equipped and staffed, was accepted on behalf of the Greek government and people by Prime Minister Venizelos at an impressive ceremony. In reply to his address, Dr. James L. Barton, of Boston, vice chairman of the Near East Foundation, declared that the people of the United States would continue their interest in the training and development of the children of Greece and Armenia. He indicated that during the next five years he would ask the American public for $600,000 to assist Greece in the establishment of model schools, hospitals and community centers in the refugee districts.

SALVATIONISTS IN CHEST DRIVE

The Salvation Army carries on in peace as it did in war.

The current report to the Richmond Community Chest of which the Army is now one of the agencies, shows a long record of constructive social work during the past year, and this work will be continued on an even broader scale in the months to come with the use of the Community Chest funds.

During the past year officers spent 805 hours in visiting those who had problems to solve. The organization held 173 street meetings; 206 indoor meetings and 155 junior meetings with a total attendance of 11,449.

The work of feeding and clothing the hungry which has always been an appealing part of the Salvation Army program, went forward in a large way during the past year.

Transients received 216 meals and 117 beds. There was a large number of applications of employment and many positions were found. Thirty-eight families were given Christmas relief last year and 200 children received toys in that season. In all, relief of one kind or another was given to 408 persons from this agency during the year, the report shows.

Richmond participated in the work of the Salvation Army rescue home in Oakland, which is operated by the state organization for the use of all communities.

The Salvation Army is one of six agencies to be financed by popular subscription in the campaign for funds opening in November. The others in the Richmond Chest are the Girl Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts, American Red Cross and the Young Men's Christian association.

In the past individual drives have been conducted for each of these agencies. In the future all of the six will be financed in a simultaneous annual appeal putting Richmond in the same class as 400 other American communities, now enjoying the Community Chest according to W. W. Scott, general chairman.

Levaggi Rites Held Yesterday

Final tribute was paid Joseph Levaggi at St. Paul's church yesterday when many Richmond and San Pablo friends went to the rites. Levaggi was found dead at his home in San Pablo early Sunday by his son. He was one of San Pablo's oldest residents. He was 81 at the time of his death.

Honorary pallbearers were: O. Chiozza, P. Pippo, B. Seri, B. Traverso, F. Barberi and G. Delphino. Ryan Funeral home arranged the funeral.

Rites Set For Crash Victim

Last services for four-year old Rose Varron who succumbed to injuries suffered last week when thrown to the pavement from her father's automobile when it collided with another car in Oakland will be held tomorrow morning from St. John's Catholic church in El Cerrito.

Interment will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. Surviving the child are her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Varron and a sister Lillian aged six.

The family home is at 934 Kearney street, El Cerrito. The accident in which the child died occurred in Oakland. The driver of the other car was P. B. Elderkin, San Francisco.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

As the New York Mother Really Is

THE New York mother has been pictured too frequently as a cold, neglectful female, who spends her time at bridge table, tea dance or motion picture house, and whose hapless children either are in charge of careless servants or are left to run wild. This misrepresentation is, of course, a part of the larger myth that city people are somehow different and worse than country people.

New York knows better; it knows especially that its mothers are as wise, as kind, as conscientiously devoted to their children as mothers anywhere. New York needs no proof of this truth—yet there will be an interesting demonstration of it in New York tomorrow night, when what is said to be the oldest Mothers' Club in the city holds its fortieth anniversary celebration at Greenwich House.

It was in 1890 that a group of ten women, mothers who were working their hardest to bring up families of healthy, happy, good children in downtown New York, first met at the College Settlement, 95 Livingston Street, under the leadership of Mrs. Lillian W. Betts. All the women had sons in the Settlement's Boys' Club, and, like other good mothers anywhere, they were interested in keeping their boys at home.

It apparently occurred to them that they could be helped by friendly discussion of their individual problems. So they took what was, for their time, an almost unprecedented step and, clutching in one olive hand which they named the Women's Home Improvement Club.

THE mothers frankly stated the object of their club—it was directed toward "improving conditions of home life and recreation." The club met weekly, and the meetings have continued without interruption during the winter months for forty years. Although these mothers are now scattered all over New York, from Hempstead to Astoria, from Staten Island to the Bronx, two of the original ten mothers are included in the present membership.

These mothers of New York have spent much of their time together in the homely "recreation" of making clothes for their growing families. They have exchanged patterns and planned the best way to cut out a small boy's knitted suit. They have commiserated with one another on the way boys "grow out" of things and "go through" them.

They have always shared one another's anxieties—first, in bringing up their children; later in watching over their children's children. They have seen nine of their sons go overseas at their country's call in the World War, and have sorrowed with one mother whose boy did not return.

ONE especially happy feature of this first New York Mothers' Club has been its success—true to its purpose of "improving conditions of home life and recreation"—in giving its families a splendid summer holiday. The members were helped to acquire the use of a very large house with grounds in Bloomfield, New Jersey, and from June 1 through September this is in turn the country home of each family fortunate enough to have "mother" in the club. The fourteen-roomed house is equipped for the use of two families at a time. Separate kitchens, dining rooms and porches make life easier for the large numbers who come and go. Each club mother is entitled to use the house two weeks, and the membership is limited in such a way that all can be accommodated in turn.

"Give and take" is the motto that each many rough corners and has held this little group through the ups and downs of forty years. They have shared not only in the pleasure of this country home but in the responsibility of its upkeep, all maintenance expenses being met by the club.

At Christmas the Mothers' Club gathers, three generations strong, for an annual party at Greenwich House. One mother has had the distinction of bringing to the party her great-grandchild!

As Mrs. Vladimir Simkhovitch, director of Greenwich House, says: "The value of such a club as the Women's Home Improvement Society is that of friendly association and an interest in a common project which gives a feeling of warmth and heart and home so hard to secure in our cosmopolitan life. Yet, though the feeling may be 'hard to secure,' it is secured, stabilized, every day in the year, by thousands of good mothers in thousands of good New York homes."

CADISH CADDAY

While chickens continue to be sold at a comparatively low price even the most modest household budget can be stretched to include one on the menu occasionally. Where there is a budget to be considered it is best to buy a chicken.

buy a chicken weighing from three to four pounds rather than a small broiler, for this will provide a delicious base for soup on succeeding days, and, if the family is small, enough left-over meat for croquettes.

Several of the chain stores make a week-end sales special of chickens, but earlier in the week it is possible to get them in districts where there are many markets and keen competition for the reasonable price of 35 cents a pound. Many housewives avoid buying medium-sized chickens because they do not know how to cook them. They broil the little ones and roast the big ones, but are at a loss to know how to prepare a medium-sized one. There are many delicious ways, and today I am going to tell you about

Clad in crimson tatters,
Folded on ragged fold,
Begged for one night's lodging,
Crouching at my feet,
Clutching in one olive hand
A sprig of bittersweet.

Darkness fades to daylight—
With the glow of dawn
I wake to snow and frost-wind
The wanderer is gone,
Leaving on my doorstep,
All be-rimed with sleet,
Nothing but a footprint, and
A sprig of bittersweet.

EUKA LAYLIE.

Another Woman Who Didn't Raise Her Boy to Be a Soldier

Now Queen Helen of Roumania is fighting her prodigal husband, Carol, because he not only wants to take their son Michael away from her but to make a soldier of him. This making a prince of royal blood is certainly not all it's cracked up to be!

THE WIFE SPEAKS
I look back over all the years,
And wonder, if I could,
Would I do other than I've done?
Sometimes I think I would!

And then I think—why, that would mean
Another man than you!
And other children—none, perhaps!
And that would never do!

Though things seem dark, and life is hard,
I think if I'd the chance,
I'd do exactly what I've done—
Without a backward glance!

ESTHER L. SCHWARTZ.

A Chicago woman has been suing for separate maintenance because she says her husband's friends hurt her social standing. But, before they reach that point, most wives manage to discourage them effectively.

Some Hallowe'en Charms

"Round and round, oh stars, so fair!
Ye travel and search out everywhere
I many a night have looked at you
This night, who my future husband shall be."

WHEN Grandma was a girl she walked in the moonlight, with a mirror in her hand, repeating this old rhyme. Her granddaughter will try the same trick at midnight on Hallowe'en, but she will do it indoors. Perhaps she will go down the cellar steps backward and carry a candle in one hand and a mirror in the other and she will see her future husband in the mirror just as surely as Grandma did.

Of course, you will peel an apple without breaking the paring, then throw it over your left shoulder. The paring forms his initials. Then you will put an apple seed on each of your eyelids, giving each seed the name of the two you love best, and whichever seed clings the longer will win for life.

Borrow a wedding ring, attach it to one of your hairs, suspend the ring over the index finger of the left hand so the ring dangles into a glass below. Repeat the alphabet slowly. When you reach the initial of your future husband the ring will strike the glass.

ONE OF THE NEWER BLOUSES OF WOOL LACE.

A SUIT AND A DRESS OF KNITTED TWEED

HAVE you been to the races recently—that is, within the last few weeks? Because if you have you know the style magic of the words "knitted tweeds." Nothing else stands up beside them for smartness.

I have told you about these knitted tweeds before, when they were dim in the distance as an approaching style high light. Now that they are upon us I am impelled to tackle them again, for worn well and by our best figured people they certainly have more charm than, in my most optimistic moment, I had believed possible.

The colors seen everywhere are brown and green. It's a dark, reddish brown with a good deal of sparkle to it—that is, it doesn't go dead—it stands out in the crisp fall air. Then the green they call "patou." It's really, if you want to know, a hunter's green or so we have known it for a good many years. The word "patou" gives it a smart stamp, but by "hunters" you know what I mean.

Yellow is one of the smartest colors for these tweeds—yellow mixed with brown or black. And brown suits with orange are very chic. Black and white ones hold all eyes—and as for wine, well that, when it appears is noticeable for its utter smartness. It registers every time as a leader.

Dark colors are out for these newer, knitted tweeds—the brighter ones have the "it" and no mistake. A bright green jacket with a dark brown skirt is one of the prettiest combinations seen anywhere where smart people are gathered together. There are other combinations of one color against another, but you know the style that brown and green carry just when you know so you know what that particular combination means.

Plaid Dresses

IF YOU want a sensation, then see one of the new plaid knitted dresses—all in one piece, simple in making to the point of severity, but with more style than you can picture without having one actually before you. They are in black and yellow or dark brown and yellow and are worn with rather wide brimmed sport hats when they look their best. Of course in this day of rivalry between the wool dress and the suit, you see quite as many dresses of all sorts of the smart knitted tweeds as you do suits. It is nip and tuck between them, for one sort is just as good style as the other and which you shall wear depends entirely upon your feelings at the moment.

Blouses in Sporting Circles

SILK and satin blouses are really almost nil among these knitted tweeds. Keep these for the street and the more dainty sort of suit. But with your knitted tweeds wear jersey blouses or light little blouses of angora or something of wool lace. That's what they all are doing where the secrets of good clothing become actually a part of the day's activities. Many of these little blouses are in white—these for the suits that have a goodly quantity of white in their patterns. But often you see them in quite brilliant colorings, as, for instance, orange or yellow, and these carry out the colors that are predominant in the tweeds.

Turtle neck sweaters—these also white and colored—are being worn with out-and-out sport suits—with riding habits too—and they look just too sporty for words. If you lean to sports clothes you will want to rush right out now and buy one of them.

Hats They Are Wearing
THERE'S a decided new note in hats—they are brimmed and they are wide, too, but their crowns are as shallow and shallower than they have ever been. You will see one of them sketched here with a feather at the back. That little feather trick is quite the best touch that a sport hat has today, and this one is just the thing to wear with one of the plain or plaid sport dresses.

A dark felt hat trimmed with matching patent leather turned back sharply from the face is one of our smartest ones. It is strictly sports.

Matching Party Partners
TO MATCH partners at the Hallowe'en party line up the men in one column and the girls in another, facing each other. A blindfolded ghost enters and going to the men's row takes a man by the hand then proceeds to the other side and touches a girl and the selected couple become partners. This is continued until all have partners.

In two baskets have matching cut-outs, one of a kind in each basket. Pass one basket to the girls standing in a row and one to the men in another row, each picks a cut-out (attach a ribbon or cord so they can wear them). When all are supplied the hostess calls out, "black cats please step forward," the girl and the man who drew black cat cut-outs appear, likewise she calls for owls, red witches, pumpkins and so on. When all the matched partners are in line the hostess leads the march to the dining room.

Give one of the men a box of red packages and instruct him to toss one to each girl from where he is standing. Then a basket containing small orange wrapped boxes is given to a girl and she throws these in a stow to the men gathered in the hall or in another room. The girls do the caps and tiny black masks found in their packages and form in line. The men put on the false nose or the small mustache contained in their boxes and march single file into the room taking their places alongside the column of girls. The couple standing side by side become partners for the dance that follows.

The Beauty Shop

By Frances Olivier

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

SHE was at the self-critical age. It comes to all women, or nearly all women, at least once in a lifetime. She "hated" the shape of her nose. It was "too fat" on the end. She talked about plastic surgery.

Plastic surgery to change a dear little soft bulb of a nose into what? Even geniuses at plastic surgery sometimes fail to achieve a really artistic job. Technically it may be a perfect operation, but if the result does not harmonize with the rest of the face, why make the alteration at all?

Say, suppose the aforementioned little bulb of a nose is changed into a feature of Greek perfection? It won't "go" with your round, cherubic cheeks and chin, Sally, or your round, baby-staring eyes. Not that we have anything against beauty surgery, mind you. For many it has worked positive miracles. But it is not the thing for silly little snail's. It is for people with really serious facial deformities.

What Sally needs to do—if anything at all, for cherubic noses are really attractive—is to reduce some of the surplus fleshiness on her nose. And a simple business it is too. The application of these compresses or cloths wrung out of hot water, will help wear down the excess flesh. And regular gentle massage will do the rest.

We suggest that the hot cloths be applied over a coating of face cream once or twice a day. Sensitive noses given to blooming should be given the hot compress treatment not oftener than once a day, if that.

Now about the massage. It consists merely in stroking the nose from bridge to tip with the thumb and forefinger. A beauty stunt, which can be practiced at odd moments. Excessive gentle pressure of the fingers makes the massage more effective, of course. It becomes a molding action as well as a reducing action, you see.

You know, the arrangement of the hair has much to do with increasing or decreasing the apparent size of the nose. For example, hair parted in the middle makes a nose appear larger, whereas hair parted on the side tends to make the nose seem smaller.

And, if you will notice, people with round, well-filled out faces seem always to have smaller noses than those with long and rather low cheeks. The actual size of the noses may be identical. Let the large nose rest, eat sufficient food, be merry and cultivate nice round apple cheeks and achieve more harmonious facial proportions.

Try This

If the curtains are badly sunburned they may give good service for another season if you dip them in a solution of saffron (a few drops) and water to make them an even ecru shade.

THE G. O. P. TABLOID PAPER

THE Republicans are now issuing a tabloid newspaper in Washington to boost the administration. Here's just an idea how the editorial staff does its stuff:

MANAGING EDITOR—What are we going to lead with for tomorrow's tabloid?

CITY EDITOR—Boss, we've got some good stories coming along. Here's a big upset in Pacific Coast football. This Stanford team got walloped 61 to 0.

MANAGING EDITOR—Stanford is President Hoover's alma mater, ain't it?

CITY EDITOR—Yeah.

MANAGING EDITOR—Well, say that Stanford was robbed of a dozen touchdowns. And you might intimate the head linemen and the field judge were Democrats.

CITY EDITOR—Yes, boss. Now, where do you want tomorrow's weather report to go?

MANAGING EDITOR—What's the prediction?

CITY EDITOR—Mostly cloudy and more rain.

MANAGING EDITOR—Play it down and claim the wets are in control of the weather bureau. And you might get a statement from the Department of Commerce predicting sunshine for the next six months. Say, where's our star reporter, Wexley, been the last few days? I haven't seen him around.

CITY EDITOR—He's working on a big Sunday feature, boss. He's counting up how many spoons were missing from the White House after every Democratic administration.

MANAGING EDITOR—Good stuff! And have him check up the tip that Andrew Jackson took a dining room table with him when he went out of office.

CITY EDITOR—Yes, boss. Now, what'll I do about the big heavy-weight fight up at Madison Square Garden in New York tonight?

MANAGING EDITOR—Spread your self on the 600 millionaires that will be at the ringside. Play it up that there are still 600 millionaires left. You can keep the fight itself down to a couple of sticks.

CITY EDITOR—We got a pip of a story coming in on the wire now. A prominent Democrat in Newark, N. J., was fined $5 for spitting on the sidewalk.

MANAGING EDITOR—Swell! Give it a banner head across page one, with pictures. And run an editorial that the Democrats are defying law and order.

CITY EDITOR—What'll we run on our music page tomorrow, boss? I've got four columns wide open.

CITY EDITOR—I'll tell you—a four-column sture of Andrew Mellon with a fullface out-line that he's the greatest Secretary of the Treasury since Alexander's Ragtime Band.

REPORTER—Pardon me for interrupting, Mr. Editor, but I can't get hold of Judge Bingle up in New York City. The operator says he's been out on lunch for an hour and fifteen minutes.

MANAGING EDITOR—Been out to lunch for an hour and a quarter, hey? That's pretty long. Get out a scarehead on it—"ANOTHER TAMMANY JUDGE MISSING—CAFETERIAS AND ONE-ARM LUNCHEONS SEARCHED IN VAIN." That's the way to pep up a Republican tabloid.

CITY EDITOR—Oh, boss, here's a five-line item I was going to throw away.

MANAGING EDITOR—What's it about?

CITY EDITOR—A minor Democratic official in Ohio is tree-sitting. That ain't very exciting to a tabloid paper.

MANAGING EDITOR—Don't be a sucker! That's just the kind of story we want! Democrat in a tree-sitting contest, hey? Well, twist the tree-sitting part and make it read: "DEMOCRATIC OFFICIAL CAUGHT IN LOVE NEST WITH AN EAGLE." That's the best tabloid story of the week!

THIS AND THAT
Chicago's dance marathon ended when the promoter waltzed away with the gate receipts.

Einstein's latest theory is that space is a nonreality. A telephone booth is just the place to study it in.

Democrats claim they will win a majority of seats in the next House of Representatives. If they do, they will be winning an undisputed dinner seat for Mrs. Gann.

Anyhow, Mr. Austin is the first motor magnate to manufacture a form-fitting car.

Eggs Thrown at American Negro Play in Germany—Headline. If it was only the whites they threw, you could call it a race riot, but they hurled the yolks, too.

Princeton University explorers discovered a dinosaur egg this fall. The Princeton football team is also laying an egg this season.

PRESIDENT IN ATTACK ON CHARGES

on the sale value of these stories."
"As a piece of journalism it may well be that the newspaper involved was misled. It certainly does not represent the practice of better American journalism. As a piece of politics it is certainly for below the ideals of political partisanship held by substantial men in that party."

No Comment

Chairman J. J. Shouse of the Democratic executive committee said he had no comment to make of the President's charges. Kelley himself is here, but he could not be reached for a statement.

Kelley tonight declined to comment on the personal aspects of the President's charges, but said:

"In view of the President's attitude, a thorough investigation by the Senate Public Lands committee is, in my opinion, imperatively necessary." Such an inquiry, he said, should be conducted by competent lawyers with ample time to investigate fully the records involved.

Pro Be Asked

Chairman Gerald P. Nye of the public lands committee, now absent in the west, has said he thinks an investigation by the senate should be held.

Hoover reviewed the justice department findings as reported by Attorney-General Mitchell and his assistant, Seth Richardson, that Kelley's charges were "baseless, without merit or substance." He noted also that the government has approved old title claims of only 43,000 acres out of 8,000,000 acres of government oil shale holdings. Oil shale is a potential source of oil, but under present conditions petroleum cannot be refined from it economically, and the government, with an eye to possible exhaustion of underground petroleum has laid claims to millions of acres of such lands in Colorado and other western states.

"Proper inquiry or proper criticism by the press is a safeguard of good government," the President said, "but this investigation shows more than this."

Scores Plot

Such charges, he concluded, can have only the ultimate result of damaging public service.

"I hope the American people realize that when reckless, baseless, and infamous charges in the face of responsible denial with no attempt at verification, are supported by political agencies and are broadcast, reflection upon the honesty of public men such as Secretary Wilbur, the ultimate result can only be damage to public service as a whole. Such things damage the whole faith of our people in men."

INMAN TELLS OF CAMPAIGN IN ADDRESS OVER RADIO

Our reclamation and water problems are far from solved; the progress of Stockton's deep water channel must be carefully guarded; Mather field, the west's greatest army aviation field, has lain vacant and desolate for years; Mare Island, the coast's greatest navy yard, is in danger of degenerating from a thriving, humming center of naval industry to a mere repair station; attention to our Federal road necessities is sorely needed; improvement of the harbors in the district is vital.

Crisis Seen

It was with these and other grave problems in mind that I consented to become a candidate for congress. I realize that there is vitally important work to be done and I listened to the importunities of hundreds of friends who felt, as I, that the Third Congressional District, particularly at this time of grave economic crisis, must be represented by some one who can visualize the district's needs, and who is willing to expend the energy necessary to get results.

The task that confronts me, if I am elected, is almost too large for comprehension, but neither dismay nor staggering. I have fought successfully and repeatedly against great odds during my sixteen years as a member of the California legislature, and I still have the vigor, plus, I believe, a valuable experience, to carry this same fighting spirit into congress with its larger field and consequent greater importance to the welfare of every citizen of the district.

If elected, I pledge full and impartial representation to every constituent, regardless of his party affiliations or whether he be for or against me in this brief campaign. My guarantee of this pledge is the record I have made in the State Assembly and Senate. I am proud of that record because it speaks in every clause of my best and unprejudiced labor on behalf of my county and my state. My pride in it is that of a citizen who has done his best to promote the welfare of his fellow man. I have worked to the best of my ability to make California a more livable, more enjoyable state, so far as the functions of government permit.

Feels Rewarded

There is an immense satisfaction in the knowledge that, through my efforts and the work of others who have had the state's welfare at heart, the tangled affairs of land owners in the San Joaquin-Sacramento drainage district, have been brought to order with ultimate dissipation of the gloomy cloud of debt which so long overshadowed this vital enterprise, now a rosy immediate prospect. There is satisfaction, too, in recollection of my share in the campaign to save California from the peril of alien ownership of land by means of the Anti-Alien Land Law which I introduced and battled to enactment.

There is a feeling of just reward in the knowledge that my bill providing for indeterminate sentences for criminals has made this state a safer and happier place of residence, and that clarifying of a long list of laws was accomplished at the last session of the legislature under leadership which the state bar of California and the judicial council reposed in me.

There is genuine happiness in recollection that I was the author of the law whereby the state undertook the healing of countless little children, crippled since birth or by disease, who otherwise would have been forced to spend their lives in pain, and in the part I played in providing state aid for the needy aged and the needy blind.

Aided Workers

I have labored with my hands, and I recall with satisfaction the successful efforts I have made to give the working man something more of his just dues under the American and California constitutions. I was a soldier, too, during America's participation in the World War, and I am proud of my activities on behalf of legislation to compensate our veterans in part for the sacrifice they made during those years of world-wide strife.

Some speaker, in behalf of my candidacy, recently said there is no mystery concerning the qualities which make a good lawmaker. He was kind enough to ascribe these qualities to me, declaring that energy, honesty, independence and conscientious and sincere effort for the welfare of the whole people had distinguished my service in the legislature, and that these virtues, backed by the experience I have gained, have fitted me for promotion to a wider sphere of legislative effort.

Whether this compliment was deserved is for you to decide November 4, when you mark your ballots by writing in the name of your choice. I am willing to abide by your decision. I shall be satisfied with the will of the voters as expressed by their majority. But, as a citizen you may reasonably expect and actually receive from your congressman and that you, as fellow citizens, be guided by something more worthy than sentiment or the influence of political convenience when you write in the name of your choice.

It is impossible for a candidate for office to promise conscientiously any concrete thing. He may pledge his best efforts toward a definite goal, but he cannot say to you: "I will secure this or that Federal appropriation so that our men may find work or that our merchants may prosper, or that we may ride over roads paved by Federal gold."

Give His Energy

I have never and shall never make any other promise than to give every ounce of energy and to utilize every shred of intelligence with which God has endowed me for the betterment of my fellows. I shall endeavor, to the best of my ability, to see that a full share of naval construction work and other activities incidental to maintenance of our fleet is done at Mare Island. I shall continue my battle of former years for the promotion and continuance of reclamation work in the valleys of the Sacramento and San Joaquin, and I shall campaign to secure adequate Federal cooperation in the solution of one of California's gravest problems—that of equitable division of water for irrigation purposes without incidence, and with the definite promotion of flood and salinity control and navigation in mind.

Moreover, if elected—and remember to take your pencil and write my name on the ballot—I promise that I will give personal attention to the affairs of my district. I realize this will be somewhat of an innovation, but I consider this absolutely necessary if a congressman is to truly represent his constituents, and if he is to know intimately conditions upon which he must base his judgment in all congressional affairs pertaining to his district. This pledge is one I have fulfilled throughout my legislative career and I consider this personal contact not only ly a sacred duty, but one upon which proper performance of duty is largely based.

Upon more than one occasion I have had the good fortune to be able to assist in putting over legislation peculiar and pertinent to this region. Twice I voted upon the floor for Stockton's deep water channel. Twice that bill went through the committee on finance, once while I was chairman and once while a member.

States Record

Few of these immense projects can be built within the estimate. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." The record upon that point is the best evidence as to my future conduct.

If my memory serves correctly, I have been a member of the committee on drainage, swamp and overflow lands at every session of the legislature but once since 1913. Owing to that service, I think I understand the problems of the delta region.

I also have been chairman or a member of the committee on commerce and navigation at every session. Hence I know the problems of the rivers and of commerce.

The last two sessions I have had the chairmanship of the powerful committee of finance.

Want's Fair Play

I challenge a reading of my record with regard to farmers' problems. If a flaw appears therein I ask to have it called to my attention.

I am a firm believer in the American spirit of fair play and that every man will receive his just deserts. If my record is the better record, I shall expect your support. If that of my opponent is the better record, I shall have no need to complain if you so decide. But the issue should be decided upon that basis, and that alone. It is a dangerous and far reaching proposition that my opponents advance for your consideration.

I take the position that, when I became a candidate for the Senate of California, it was my personal choice; that, when elected, it was with a distinct understanding that the compensation was in the salary paid and the honors conferred by my constituents. I did not understand that the right to name my successor was one of those rights.

Radio Progress

I feel so strongly on this question of adequate representation of our district in congress that I constantly run the danger of overestimating the degree to which this concern is shared by my fellow-citizens. We are progressing so rapidly in California these days that our list of actual needs of service from the Federal government by means of congressional authority appears limitless. There is not a session of congress when the welfare of some important factor or factors of our great agricultural industry is not jeopardized, or when the full force of our state's congressional delegation is not needed to avert some calamity threatening our industries.

I can only say to you that, as I have done while a member of the California legislature, so I shall do if I am sent to Washington as the representative from the Third District. My record is my pledge of continued service.

I am, and have been a Republican all my life, but no man can say I have been governed by partisanship in serving our people or the state. This I do pledge you—that, if elected—and remember that my name will have to be written on the ballot—I shall go to Washington unembarrassed by strings which any special interest can pull, or under promise to any politician or set of politicians intent upon personal, rather than public benefits.

This election is in your hands. I ask only that, when you vote, you do so fully conscious of your duties as citizens, unswayed by motives unworthy of consideration when balloting for the welfare of the Third Congressional District, the finest section of our own state of California.

time acquitted. It was reported last July from the Colorado prison that Abshire, Boster and Royston had talked and they were brought here for appearance before the grand jury and the indictments followed. They were not made public until recently.

At the time that Jake Fleagle was killed the arrests of De Moss and Miller soon followed. George H. Austin, San Francisco postal inspector was largely responsible for the capture of Fleagle. A man living near San Francisco who had reason to fear Fleagle, he was to let Austin know when he heard from Fleagle.

The unnamed man received a letter last July asking where he, the writer could get in touch with De Moss. Fleagle was to be advised through the personnel columns of the Wichita Kan. Eagle.

Austin sent a personnel saying that DeMoss was in Reno. A letter soon came to Austin's informant that a job could be pulled in Missouri. Austin advertised in the Wichita paper "Glad to hear from you. Sounds good to me."

The final letter came to Austin's informant telling him to pick up De Moss and meet Fleagle on a 7:15 a. m. train going from Yellville, Ark., to Branson Mo. In the meantime Austin and his aides went to Missouri, where another man made up as De Moss, met

BANKER'S WIFE IN KIDNAP CASE MUM

GALVA, Ill., Oct. 28.—UP—Utmost secrecy tonight cloaked the disappearance of Banker Earl L. Yocum, Galva's wealthiest citizen, and the reported $50,000 ransom demanded by his abductors.

His palatial home was guarded by detectives, the gates of the brick wall surrounding it were locked, and his wife refused to say anything concerning his reported abduction "for fear he would be murdered."

The cashier of Yocum's bank here, A. E. Anderson, made a second hurried trip to Chicago today, and returned in silence. The many reports concerning Yocum's disappearance had it that Anderson had obtained $50,000 in Chicago, with which to purchase Yocum's safe return.

Mrs. Yocum has received two letters so far from her husband, who apparently was abducted from his front yard last Saturday night. She intimated that both letters told of a ransom gangs demands.

She said that negotiations with the kidnapers would be carried out absolutely secretly, that all instructions would be followed and that she hoped authorities would make no move which might endanger the life of her husband.
